Hancock jobless rate decreases slightly

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's unemployment rate decreased slightly in January, current Mississippi State Employment Service figures indicate.

The 10.6 percent rate reflects 980 people here unemployed out of a civilian labor force of 9,260, the state report lists.

Hancock's jobless rate is lower than the state's 11 percent rate, but greater than the national 8.8 percent rate for the same period, the figures show.

For December, the Hancock unemployment rate is listed at 10.9 percent.

Mississippi's January unemployment rate reflects an increase of eight-tenths of a percentage point compared to December's revised jobless rate of 10.2 percent, says Cohen Robertson, Mississippi Employment Security Commission executive director.

Last year's January unemployment rate was 14.1 percent, he notes.

Commission figures for the state show 112,200 unemployed and 909,700 employed out of a civilian labor force of 1,021,900.

Robertson says initial unemployment insurance claims total 31,883 in January.

"Some 57 of the state's 82 counties had unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher in January. Of that number, seven counties had unemployment rates above 20 percent," he states.

Counties with the highest unemployment rates in January were Sharkey with 28.7 percent, Tunica with 28 percent, Tishomingo with 22.1 percent, Montgomery with 22 percent, Jefferson with 20.7 percent, George with 20.6 percent, and Holmes with 20.3 percent.

Rankin, Oktibbeha, Hinds, and Issaquena Counties had the lowest jobless rates in January with 6.2, 6.7, 6.9 and 7.2 percent, respectively.

About ten counties show a decrease in unemployment rates from December to January, while 71 counties reported increases. The unemployment rate in Newton County remained the same.

Authorities report burned auto stolen,

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Mississippi Highway Patrol officials are looking for the owner of a 1976 Lincoln Continental that burned Monday night on Bully Zengaring Road in Hancock County.

Highway Patrol Trooper Freddy Keel said he was driving down Hwy. 90 about 10:30 p.m. when he looked down a country road and saw the vehicle.

"It looked like it had just started burning," he said.

"But when I got there, nobody was around."

Keel called the BaySide Volunteer Fire Department to put out the fire.

Keel reported yesterday afternoon that the car, as had been suspected, was stolen.

He said the car came from New Orleans but the owner has not yet been identified.

"We're still investigating," Keel said.

Suicide ruled in motel death

Suicide is ruled in the death of a St. Petersburg, Fla. man whose body was found at a Waveland motel.

Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department said Wednesday that an inquest determined that Michael A. Lowery, 39, apparently electrocuted himself in a room at Waveland Resort Inn on US-90.

Dorn reported that Lowery's body was found by Waveland Investigators Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille and Sandra (Sam) Henley on Jan. 19 after they broke down the door to the room.

The chief explained that the room door had been locked from the inside and could not be opened by motel employees.

A coroner's inquest conducted by City Judge Aaron Adams and Dr. John Rutherford, a hospital pathologist, determined Lowery had been dead about two days and had died as the result of self-induced electrocution, Dorn said.

Dorn added that an investigation found that Lowery had been staying at the motel since Jan. 4 and paying his room fee on a daily basis.

IMPACT OF IDEED FERRY

When the states of Mississippi and Louisiana discontinued the operation of a ferry service between Port Gibson and St. Joseph nearly five years ago as ferry fees fell short of covering the contract cost with the two states, a regression of business and association was suffered on both sides of this nation's greatest waterway as new hardships developed.

Last week this writer visited St. Joseph to look at their side of the story. It is sad.

It makes one wonder why, in the face of escalating fuel costs, those responsible for the decision to discontinue the service did not take other options — like contracting for fewer daily trips across the river to cut back the high fuel cost which was cited as the reason for cancelling the ferry service.

Or, the switching of contracts to a smaller sized ferry—a compact, if you please, which would have been consistent with moves then being made throughout the economy for more fuel efficient transportation.

Whitfield Jones, mayor of the historic little delta town in Louisiana that serves as a hub for farm, agri-business, and tourism activities, is a friendly, affable department store owner-operator in St. Joseph who continues to strive for a resumption of the ferry service.

Jones formerly had two stores in the two states, but had to close Casey's at Mendenhall, Mississippi, because of the removal of the ferry from service, since he had to commute regularly between St. Joseph and Mendenhall.

So he has a personal reason for opposing shutdown of the ferry. But as mayor of the picturesque hamlet in Texas Parish, filled in a travel brochure as "your gateway to lovely Louisiana," Jones daily sees the detrimental impact on both sides of the river.

Formerly the transportation distance between Louisiana and Mississippi at this point was about 100 miles — about one mile across the river, depending on which way the ferry was headed.

Now it is about 110 miles from landing to landing. Former landings, that is.

Workers at the Grand Gulf Nuclear Power Station whose homes are in Louisiana have to commute over 200 miles daily via car pools and the bridge at Vicksburg to go to and from work.

Salesmen who service accounts in both states no longer have a reasonable shortcut, but must use either a bridge at Vicksburg or Natchez to get between these agricultural and business areas that are separated only by the river.

A farm equipment dealer in St. Joseph lamented that a few Tensas Parish farmers had farms rented in Mississippi when the ferry was discontinued. And now he has to travel over 100 miles to reach a disabled tractor to make repairs.

I sat in a small restaurant in St. Joseph as a local resident and businessman commented on the loss of the ferry. He pointed out loss of the ferry arbitrarily had cut off Louisiana families from a habit of visiting the scenic and historic hill country around Port Gibson, particularly on weekends.

"A lot of people here like to eat out after church on Sundays," he said, "and we crossed the river on the ferry to enjoy our parks, historic sites and restaurants. Now we can't do that and people on both sides suffer."

The St. Joseph-Port Gibson area suffers worse than other adjoining areas between Louisiana and Mississippi because the center of the area is about 60 miles south of the Vicksburg bridge and over 50 miles north of the Natchez bridge. And these two bridges are the only ones connecting two states that share a rich common heritage of geographic, historic, culture history and resources.

So near, yet so far — is the ironic story to the bottom line of this story.

White male takes $850 in Bay armed robbery

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Bay St. Louis police officials are looking for a middle-aged white male who robbed the Dunbar Package Liquor Store early Monday evening.

Police Chief Douglas Williams said the suspect entered the store at 703 Dunbar Ave. about 6 p.m. armed with a sawed-off shotgun.

The clerk on duty did not notice the weapon until the man hit him on the head and ordered him to the back of the store, where he robbed the clerk of his wallet and its contents.

Then he made the clerk open the cash register.

After taking the money from the cash register, Williams said the man told the clerk to lie down on the floor "if you don't want your head blown off."

Williams said the suspect got away with about $850 in cash plus ten fifths of liquor.

According to Williams, the suspect has black hair and a mustache, is about five feet nine inches tall and weighs about 145 pounds.

He was wearing a white hat, and is balding in front, Williams said.

"According to witnesses, a light blue van left the scene at approximately the time of the robbery," he reported.

The clerk went to Hancock General Hospital where he was treated for head wounds and released.

Police officials involved in the investigation include Investigator Murray Ladner, Investigator Joe Pica, Lt. John Rester, Patrolman Edward Prendergast and Patrolman Gerry Crum.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

EQUITY IN YOUR HOME

Question: With the value of residential real estate continuing to rise, I realize that I have a substantial amount of equity in my home. I would like to have access to that equity. Is there a financing technique other than a traditional second mortgage that I can use? K.C., Meridian

Answer: Dear K.C.:

Like yourself, many people are realizing that the equity in their home may be the cheapest and the best means of borrowing money for a new car, college education or an investment.

Also realizing this is financial institutions and brokerage houses who now offer a wide array of new and quite simple ways for homeowners to tap the equity in their homes.

Equity has been estimated as being approximately $3 trillion.

The easiest means by which this equity can be tapped is a line of credit secured by a second mortgage on this house.

The big advantage over the line of credit approach is the degree of control that you as the borrower have over when you borrow and when you repay the loan.

Here is how a home-secured line of credit works. The lender will normally lend you two-thirds of the equity in your home. (Equity being defined as current appraised value less current mortgage balance.)

Once your application has been approved, you do not repay any interest until you actually draw on the credit line by using a special checking account.

The rate of interest is slightly higher than the prime rate and is adjusted periodically according to fluctuations in the prime rate. Generally you can take up to 10 years to repay the loan.

Right now the cost to you may be lower than would be the case with a traditional second mortgage.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis S. Tush, P.O. Box 236, Universal, MS 38877.

JAZZ CONCERT

The University of Mississippi Jazz Bonds will present their spring concert at 7:30 p.m. March 1 in Meek Hall auditorium on the Oxford campus.

"This program will offer more variety of styles, performers and groups than we have ever put on the stage at one time," said Dr. John McCauley, director of The University jazz ensembles. "In our program there are two completely separate bands, The Mississippians and The Collegians. Each band practices separately, prepares different programs and features its own soloists."

One highlight of the program will be a guest performance by nationally-known jazz pianist Dardanelle, who regularly tours throughout the country. Dardanelle became interested in the Ole Miss jazz program when her son entered the university as a music student.

The concert will benefit LeBonheur Children's Hospital of Memphis, and donations will be accepted at the door. Sigma Alpha Iota and Tau Beta Sigma, women's fraternities in music, are coordinating the donations for LeBonheur.

Mississippi's beauty is everybody's duty!

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee joins Mississippi's 'Keep Mississippi Beautiful' drive in promoting a countywide clean-up and paint-up effort.

We urge all citizens to do their part during this campaign month as well as throughout the year.

Keep Mississippi Beautiful is promoting a statewide clean-up—paint-up drive during the entire month of April. The measure of benefit to each Mississippian will be in direct relation to his or her effort.

Litter is a deterrent to beauty, lowers property values, drives away potential shoppers, and discourages tourism.

In addition, it is a definite health hazard.

The Mississippi State Board of Health has repeatedly warned of a possible outbreak of encephalitis, a disease carried by the mosquito.

By cleaning up old cans, bottles, junk tires, and other litter affording breeding places for the mosquito, it will materially help in control of the dreaded disease.

Many homes, places of business, and communities are already attractive, but in many areas the reverse is true.

Concentration in those areas of blight will add much to the overall appearance of Mississippi.

Whether we like it or not, we as a people are judged by the appearance of our surroundings. Our highways, streets, and roads are our living rooms to tourists.

Discourage litter-bugs! Plant trees, shrubs and flowers in attractive landscape designs. See that adequate trash containers are provided in all public areas, parks, etc. Carry a litter bag in your car, truck, or boat, and use it.

Mississippi will soon host many visitors who will travel through our county and state on their way to the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition in New Orleans.

This program will help portray our state in the favorable light that is truly Mississippi. Do your part to help Keep Mississippi Beautiful.

We received several telephone calls on Tuesday morning from subscribers reporting snow was falling.

Many folks felt winter was over with the many fruit trees already in bloom and the shirt sleeve weather a few days prior to Tuesday.

It appears winter still has a few blasts left for this season.

We do hope the cold does not destroy all fruit for this year.

The quick shower, right after Nereids started rolling Sunday, did not delay the parade.

Many spectators scrambled for shelter in businesses and autos only to return to their viewing spot as soon as the last drop of rain fell.

Even with the threatening weather, the crowds seemed to be about the same to us as last year.

Congratulations are in order for all members of the Krewe of Nereids and other parade participants for not letting a few drops of rain discourage them.

The floats this year appeared to be great and many spectators were commenting on how nice they were.

Mardi Gras activities will continue on Saturday in Hancock County with two parades.

Diamondhead's parade is scheduled for noon on Saturday. The community's parade is really increasing in size and amount of work in its floats in recent years and really adds to Hancock County's festivities.

The West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, sponsor of the annual Miss Torch Mardi Gras Parade in Pearlinton, this year has found itself financially unable to stage the event.

Fire Chief Gerald Watkins said his department this year is buying a new fire truck after the department's vehicle became inoperable and beyond repair.

Watkins said the VFD hopes to resume the Miss Torch Parade next year.

Our neighbors to the East in Pass Christian will celebrate Mardi Gras on Sunday with the St. Paul's Carnival Association annual parade at 2 p.m.

It is a parade with many floats and several of the entries are from Hancock County.

Tuesday, Mardi Gras Day starts with the Real People Parade in Bay St. Louis at 11 a.m., and ends with the Krewe of Triton rolling down US-90 in Waveland and Bay St. Louis starting at 2 p.m.

We hope everyone will become 'young at heart' and view a few of the parades.

The participants spend a lot of time and money in offering you a free show.

By Cong. Trent Lott

DEFICIT REDUCTION

Those of us involved in a bi-partisan deficit reduction task force are working to develop a timetable for action on making a down payment on the federal deficit.

Members of the House Republican delegation to the deficit reduction talks proposed a timetable last week in the group's second meeting. We also proposed creation of a special joint budget committee to speed enactment of the task force's recommendations.

I am involved in these negotiations at the request of the House Republican Leader, Congressman Bob Michel of Illinois. But, beyond that, I am genuinely concerned about the potential impact of huge — and growing — federal deficits on economic stability.

We need to begin now, making a downpayment on the deficit to ensure that our legacy will not be one of debt. Further, by solving the deficit problem, or at least making a start, we can begin to turn our attention onto other matters.

Here is essentially what we proposed regarding the timetable and joint budget committee:

- Expand the task force to include key committee members, create the joint budget committee and have it receive task force recommendations by the week of March 19;

- Have the joint budget committee complete action on a "downpayment" budget resolution by the week of April 2;

- Have House and Senate Budget Committees report fiscal year 1985 budget resolution by April 15 and have

Congress complete action on the "downpayment" resolution by the week of April 23;

- By May 15, Congress could complete action on the FY 85 budget resolution and, by the week of June 4, the Congress could complete action on any changes in the "downpayment" legislation.

The joint committee itself would be designed to serve several purposes. First, it would be a clearinghouse for budget numbers, discouraging any efforts to delay consideration of deficit reduction measures and preventing those measures from being threatened by a long, drawn-out legislative procedure.

It would also address the matter of a "Third Resolution on the Budget" for fiscal year 1984 and recommend to the House and Senate a range of budget figures for the First Resolution on the Budget for fiscal year 1985.

The addition of individuals from the appropriate committees would be an essential part of the process, especially the House Ways and Means Committee, the Senate Finance Committee, and the Appropriations and Budget Committees from each body.

Efforts to reduce deficit spending must include members of the committees which are most directly involved in the technical aspects of budgets.

I am still hopeful that the deficit reduction task force can serve a meaningful purpose in making a "downpayment" on the federal deficit and I have encouraged my colleagues on the panel to take their tasks seriously, too.

Although the space was crowded, they seem to have all kinds of modern equipment, and I needed most of it.

Now I am home feeling better.

And while I am about it, we need a new and larger hospital.

You know it, and I know it. It will not cost the taxpayers a cent, but will be financed by Industrial Revenue Bonds.

So let's not procrastinate, but work together for a facility which is of such importance to the fast-growing community of Hancock County.

MISSISSIPPI CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division Of The Office Of
Edwin Lloyd Pittman, Attorney General

GM ARBITRATION PROGRAM

Relief has arrived for the hundreds of thousands of dissatisfied General Motors car owners with transmission or engine problems.

A controversial Federal Trade Commission Consent Order that requires GM to set up a nationwide arbitration program for dissatisfied GM car owners is now in effect.

The program began in January, 1984 and will run for eight years. The FTC Order gives important rights to all present and many past GM car owners, even if they bought the car used and allows owners to arbitrate unresolved disputes regardless of the age or mileage of their car.

It is important to understand that General Motors car owners can still resort to individual litigation to remedy the same problems addressed by the Consent Order, and that the Consent Order may even facilitate these claims.

Although the Consent Order applies to all consumers whose present GM has engine or transmission defects, the FTC complaint focused on three problems which were particularly serious, were costly to repair, occurred in abnormally high numbers of GM cars, and were not disclosed by GM to car owners:

- The THM 200 automobile transmission, used in five to six million GM cars made during the model year 1976 through the present, covering most of the company's product lines.

- Premature camshaft wear involving 305 and 350 cubic inch V-8 gasoline engines produced by the Chevrolet Division and used in nearly 15 million cars covering car lines manufactured beginning in 1974.

- Fuel injection pumps and fuel injectors in 350 cubic-inch diesel engines produced by the Oldsmobile Division used in 500,000 cars covering several product lines manufactured beginning in 1977.

Nearly 21 million vehicles were equipped with one or more of these components. However, not all of these cars will have problems according to the Federal Trade Commission.

The Federal Trade Commission mandated General Motors Arbitration is open to any GM car owner, whether or not that individual has previously complained about the problem, and whether or not the individual is the car's original owner.

The arbitration program conducted throughout more than 150 Better Business Bureau Offices across the country is supposed to resolve each consumer's dispute quickly, providing hearing within 60 days after the consumer enters the program.

The Better Business Bureau has set up a toll free number for consumers to call to get basic arbitration information. The number to call for further information regarding this program is 948-2322.

The hearings, for each arbitrator, will be held at a time and place convenient to the consumer. There will be no charge to consumers, nor will they need lawyers. Consumers should bring any documents they have concerning their problem, including copies of repair bills.

The arbitration hearings are binding on General Motors, but not on the consumer, unless he or she accepts the award. A consumer who is not satisfied with the outcome of the hearing may reject the arbitrator's decision and pursue the matter further through a private suit.

An Arbitration Information Kit which provides factual details on each of the three major GM problem areas highlighted above have been prepared by the Attorney General's Office and are available to consumers. They can be used in arbitration or before a small claims court by consumers or attorneys in litigation against GM.

For further information, please call or write: A. Michael Espy, Assistant Attorney General, Chief, Consumer Protection Division, P. O. Box 220, Jackson, MS 39205 or call (601) 359-3680.

Focus on Small Business

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Dorothy A. Overall
Public Information Officer

Q: Like more and more Americans, I'm thinking about starting up my own small business. Any tips?

A: Your first critical problem will be to determine the feasibility and practical aspects of your idea.

Getting into the right business at the right time is simple advice, but advice that is extremely difficult to implement. The high failure rate of new businesses and products indicates that very few ideas result in successful business ventures, even when introduced by well established firms. Too many entrepreneurs strike out on a business venture so convinced of its merits that they fail to thoroughly evaluate its potential.

The U.S. Small Business Administration, which for 30 years has assisted small firms and persons wanting to go into business, has an excellent publication that offers a checklist for persons like you. The publication, one in a series of Management Aids published by SBA, is titled, "Flexibility Checklist for Starting a Small Business." The free publication is available at my office located in the Gulf National Life Insurance Building, end Floor, Biloxi, MS 39530.

Q: I understand that the number of new small firms continues to increase across the country. What industries show the greatest growth?

A: To use a key measurement — business starts — fastest growth is in transportation equipment, non-bank credit agencies, general construction contractors, special trade contractors, personal services, real estate, utility and sanitary services, nonbuilding construction and computer and data processing services. Except for transportation equipment, these fastest-growing industries are dominated by small firms.

Business starts in these fields during 1983 rose more than 35 percent over 1982, according to data pulled together by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Professor refutes cholesterol as disease cause

Nothing irks Dr. Anthony Verlangieri more than the widespread notion that cholesterol causes cardiovascular disease.

"It complicates the process but does not cause it," he says.

At 38, Verlangieri may be the world's premier authority on the relationship between Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) and atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries.

He has devoted almost 15 years to tracking down and examining the role Vitamin C plays in the progression of the disease.

What he has found is so simple, so basic, that even some of his peers look upon his findings with skepticism.

He asserts that in the absence of proper amounts of Vitamin C, Glycosaminoglycans — an ingredient in the 'cement' that holds cells together — breaks down. When the ingredient is absent or in short supply, lesions result and atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries occurs.

If cholesterol is present in the blood, arteries tend to 'plaque up,' restricting blood flow.

The result could be blood clots, strokes, heart attacks and, for diabetics, complications associated with cardiovascular disease.

Stopping and even reversing the disease may be as fundamental as taking extra doses of Vitamin C.

"Researchers think the answer is too simple," Dr. Verlangieri said.

His fight for recognition and acceptance of his new theory has not been without skirmishes.

The most recent setback came with the disclosure of results of a $150 million National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute study that tracked the incidence of heart disease among middle-aged men.

The study's director claims that the research 'demonstrated conclusively that lowering cholesterol prevents heart disease.' The director also estimates that 100,000 of the 550,000 coronary deaths that occur annually could be prevented by reduced cholesterol intake.

Dr. Verlangieri has no quarrel with claims that cholesterol aggravates cardiovascular disease. But he heatedly disagrees with those who indicate that cholesterol causes the condition.

"Everybody seems to forget that the pathogenesis of scurvy is similar to that of atherosclerosis," he said.

"Scurvy results from a vitamin C deficiency and the cardiovascular lesions associated with it are very similar to lesions associated with atherosclerosis.

"What we need to find out is what starts the lesions!" he said.

"Lowering dietary cholesterol doesn't stop or cure the lesions.

In addition to spending millions to study how to slow the disease, we should be spending dollars to find what starts it. That's the key to helping the 450,000 who will die each year even after reducing cholesterol intake."

Dr. Verlangieri has garnered $1.2 million in research funds since joining Ole Miss three years ago to accumulate evidence to prove his theory.

For the past year he has been feeding 40 monkeys a vitamin C-deficient diet which produced hardening of the arteries in the animals.

Soon he will be feeding them varying doses of Vitamin C.

If the deterioration of the arteries is halted or reversed, as was the case in preliminary experiments with rabbits and guinea pigs, Dr. Verlangieri will have proof to substantiate his theory. Deficiencies of the vitamin allow hardening of the arteries to occur, and extra doses of the vitamin prevent and may even cure the condition.

Still another theory that Dr. Verlangieri hopes to debunk soon is the belief that high blood sugar directly causes accelerated development of hardening of retinal and kidney arteries in diabetics.

For diabetics the risk of dying of heart disease is twice that of the normal population. Diabetics also have a much higher incidence of complications due to cardiovascular disease. Those complications include a 25-fold increase of retinal artery disease, a seven-fold increase of kidney disease and a high incidence of coronary artery disease.

Dr. Verlangieri believes that these complications are accelerated because Vitamin C does not get into cells passively by diffusion. It, like glucose, requires active transport. He explains it this way.

"Insulin is the wheelbarrow while glucose and Vitamin C are the load," he said. "In a diabetic the wheelbarrow fills up with glucose, which is already in high concentrations in the blood, and there is no room for Vitamin C so it is left in the blood."

If Vitamin C supplements are taken, more Vitamin C will be present in the blood, and both glucose and Vitamin C will get into the cells, he says.

In his cell culture laboratory

Dr. Verlangieri and his colleagues are finding that even with adequate insulin, low levels of glucose significantly inhibit ascorbic acid uptake.

"What that means is that even non-diabetics suffer marginal tissue deficiencies of ascorbic acid, and there is a 'double whammy' effect in diabetics who have inadequate supplies of insulin with high blood sugar," he said.

He recommends taking a total of 1,000 to 2,000 milligrams of Vitamin C each day to prevent cardiovascular disease in non-diabetics and to even possibly reverse accelerated cardiovascular disease in diabetics.

Diabetics should consult their physicians before increasing their Vitamin C intake.

Frisbie, realtor and selling agent for the property.

Another area resident, Cynthia Martinovich, said she was concerned about her family.

"I've lived in apartment complexes," she said. "People come and go."

"I'm excited about building my first home. I'm concerned about traffic problems with an apartment complex. And I'm concerned about what type of people my children would be growing up with."

Margaret Hayden said she owns property in the vicinity of the proposed complex.

"I feel it would be an asset to the neighborhood," she said.

James Mallini of Ninth Street expressed concerns about both traffic and security problems.

Bennie Ferrell of Bismark Street questioned whether the city sewage and water systems were sufficient to handle such a complex.

Also expressing concern about increased traffic was Beverly Coogan of Bismark Street.

"Most families have two cars," she said. "That's 96 more. I'm utterly opposed!"

"We left New Orleans to avoid this sort of thing," another Ninth Street resident commented.

"We bought our first—and perhaps our only—house here to raise our little boy in."

"The character of the neighborhood now is certainly not single family residential," Franks argued.

He said he lived in an apartment at one time and felt it was a pretty good person even though I lived in an apartment complex."

Martin Morreale spoke against the project on behalf of several area residents, he said.

"Quit this spot zoning," he told the commissioners.

"It's ruining the integrity of our neighborhoods."

The commissioners took the matter under advisement and agreed to meet Thursday, March 8 at 6 p.m. to either approve or deny the zoning change.

In other business Monday the supervisors:

—Authorized Dr. Richard Leard of the Bureau of Marine Resources, working with Gulf Regional Planning Commission and South Mississippi Planning and Development District, to take whatever steps are necessary to apply for funds for a marina and small boat harbor at Bayou Cadet.

Supervisor Sam Pernicaro said Tuesday that Leard estimates funds will be available within a year or so for such a project, and the board wants to proceed with preliminary planning.

—Accepted the resignation of Pat Manfray, Harvill from the board's cemetery committee.

—Adopted a resolution permitting

Williams Paving of Biloxi to construct a dry ramp on a county right-of-way at Diamondhead between Peoples Federal and Fairway Villa Motel, on the south side.

—Agreed to advertise for bids to disconnect from the sea wall and pull out, from the beaches on Beach Boulevard between Buccaneer Park in Waveland and the railroad track in Bay St. Louis, rusted drainage pipes that are no longer in use.

—Heard a status report on reappraisal from Hancock County Assessor/Tax Collector Eddie Murtagh, and authorized him to do whatever is necessary to meet the reappraisal deadline.

Sheriff reports deputies are all state-certified

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

When David Murtagh graduates from the Police Academy in Laurel today, all the sheriff's deputies in the county will be certified by the State of Mississippi, Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson advised the Board of Supervisors Monday.

Murtagh has been employed by the sheriff's office for about a year, Peterson said.

All the other deputies are already certified.

Current staff at the sheriff's office includes nine full-time deputies and two investigators, plus four additional deputies who provide full-time security services at Port Bienville Industrial Park and are paid by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

"Basically, we are three deputies short compared to four years ago," Peterson said Tuesday.

"We used to have 12 full-time deputies, but because the county was short of funding we had to take three deputies and send them out to Port Bienville."

Peterson believes more deputies are needed.

"With the World's Fair, I feel we'll be twice as busy," he said.

"But there's no money to hire more men."

Peterson said his office tries to utilize auxiliary personnel as much as possible.

"We've got about 20 part-time auxiliary deputies now. Five or six of the more experienced ones who relieve the regular deputies are paid; the rest are volunteers."

According to Peterson, the sheriff's office "couldn't do without" the auxiliary deputies.

"For instance, we had 20 auxiliary personnel in uniform for the Mardi Gras parade Sunday," he said.

"That helped a lot."

Peterson credits Deputy David Garcia, Auxiliary Deputy and Chief of Auxiliary Eddie Jennings and Auxiliary Deputy and former Justice Court Judge Lee Klein with organizing the auxiliary and developing training programs for them.

"They have regular monthly meetings, they show films and have classes," he said.

"They have really helped fill the gap that was left when we lost the regular deputies."

Peterson said auxiliary deputies ride with regular deputies on the afternoon shift when sufficient personnel are available.

"And for the 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. shift, we always like to have two men to a vehicle," he said.

Since the wing is my favorite part of the chicken, I am always cooking the wings in one fashion or another, especially since my younger grandson has become so fond of the "mini-drumsticks"—the first, meaty joint of the wings (just save the other part for stock).

They, of course, like the mini-drumsticks best Southern Fried chicken style.

But these bits of chicken are also delicious sauteed in butter and lemon slices with fresh parsley, or stewed and served with mushroom rice, or in a sweet and sour sauce or rich tomato sauce, and so on, and they are marvelous as appetizers.

Sometimes I serve them in a chafing dish, in whatever sauce I've stirred up, along with tiny hot dogs, sausages and meatballs, and they always disappear quickly.

And, when I cook up a batch of the little drums for myself and "Peanuts" the cat, we munch happily until they're all gone.

A favorite around here is: Mini-Drums in Beer Sauce 2 or 3 dozen chicken wings 1/2 cup soy sauce 1 cup pineapple juice 1/4 cup brown sugar 1 clove garlic, minced 1 Tbsp. minced onion 1 level tsp. ground ginger, optional 1 cup tired beer*

Butter or margarine for browning chicken

First, cut off the tip and end joints of the wings. Combine the soy sauce, pineapple juice, and brown sugar in a bowl, then toss in the garlic and onion and ginger, if you're using the latter. (Some like it, some don't; if you use it, just don't over do it?)

*Add the cup of beer. "Tired beer" is just beer that you have opened and let sit awhile before you start the recipe. Stir it all together, then pour this sweet-sour marinade over the mini-drumsticks, using a deep bowl, so that all the pieces are well bathed in the marinade.

Let this sit for three or four hours in the refrigerator—or for just an hour or so at room temperature. Then, drain off the marinade and set it aside—don't throw it away!

Brown the chicken pieces in butter or margarine in a heavy skillet or pan. Add about half a cup of the reserved marinade to the pan, cover, and simmer 20 minutes or so or until tender.

Peek in the pan from time to time, and add more of the marinade if needed lest the chicken dry out.

Serve hot, with the remainder of the marinade spooned over, or with the sauce in a separate bowl for dunking.

Trinity Academy to sponsor 'Southern Elegance'

By NAN P. EHRBRIGHT

Local residents will have an opportunity to experience the antebellum South next month when Trinity Christian Academy presents 'Southern Elegance Remembered.'

The pilgrimage to the past will be held at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Friday, April 13, and at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 14, at the historical home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Parker, 115 Washington St., Bay St. Louis.

Activities will include refreshments and entertainment.

Eight girls and eight boys from the high school—all costumed in clothing depicting the antebellum South—will guide visitors back through time with waltzes, skits and discussions of the history of the Parker home.

They will also talk about the characters some of the students will depict, including Stephen Foster, Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee and William McWillie.

Coordinating the event are Mrs. Barbara Manix, social studies teacher, and Mrs. Joan Marino, fourth and fifth grade teacher.

This is the first time Trinity Christian Academy has sponsored a pilgrimage, Mrs. Manix said, but we hope it won't be the last.

The idea, she said, originated with Jan Parker, director of teachers at Trinity, and was met with enthusiasm by the students.

The public is invited to attend 'Southern Elegance Remembered.'

Donations of $1 for adults and 75 cents for students is requested.

In Girls' action there was a ray of sunshine from Dillmann Roofing in the Under 10 Division as the girls tied for first place in the mini-tournament at Gulfport. In the opening game Dillmann played to a scoreless tie against SMSC.

Then in back-to-back games against Slidell No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, Dillmann picked up a 2-1 win and another 0-0 tie. Later in the afternoon Dillmann tied Ocean Springs 1-1 and shutout Biloxi for its second win.

The two wins and three ties for five points was enough to earn the first place tie.

Black Tornados were not as fortunate as it was unable to score all day. The girls played a good defensive game for three games, losing to Slidell No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, 1-0 and 2-0 before tying Biloxi 0-0 while dominating the game. In the finale against Ocean Springs No. 1 Black Tornados were routed 5-0.

Sports World jumped off to a 1-0 lead at halftime in its game against SMSC, but despite fine goalkeeping by Melissa Duncan and Dana Wheeler SMSC came back with two goals in the second half to down the Red Raiders 2-1.

Saturday Schedule

1:30 p.m. Ocean Springs vs. Sports World (2-1-0)
3 p.m. Sea Coast Echo vs. Slidell

Hancock Insurance Agency

NANCY MURPHY Agent

There are 2 basic steps that you can take to determine if you have adequate insurance on your valuables:

1. Get an appraisal and know today's replacement value. For your protection, have valuables professionally appraised.

2. Know the limits on their losses in your homeowners policy. Your homeowners policy covers all personal possessions. When there is a loss by theft, however, the amount of reimbursement on certain items is limited.

An inventory is vitally important after a loss. If there is a disaster tomorrow, would you remember each item lost? We have inventory booklets to help make the job easier. Come by your office for a free booklet.

HEY YOU!—Why don't you adopt me? If I don't get a good home with a fenced yard by the end of this week it's going to be all over for me. I'm Pug, a very nice little two-year-old female dog, at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. For adoption information please telephone the Bay-Waveland Humane Society volunteer at 467-0230 Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.; Tuesday from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.; Thursday from noon until 3 p.m.; or Saturday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

FLUFFY FELLA—Who's that? Is that someone who wants to give me a good home with a fenced yard? Oh well, another false alarm... Hello, I'm Snow Prince and I'm here at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. I could sure use a good home quick because if I don't get one by the end of the week, they're going to do something called "painlessly destroyed" to me then. I'm a nice little long-haired solid white dog about two years old. For adoption information please telephone the Bay-Waveland Humane Society volunteer at 467-0230 Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.; Tuesday from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.; Thursday from noon until 3 p.m.; or Saturday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Thinking Slim

BY JEAN NIDETCH

FAT ALERT!

We all have a certain threshold of anxiety when it comes to fat, a point at which the lights start to flash, the sirens to wail, and we awaken to a full scale Fat Alert! Ignored often enough, however, the fat alert mechanism has been known to fail. So, as a back-up to keep your system fail-safe, we offer from time to time a few warning signals of our own. Warnings such as these:

A Fat Alert is in effect when...

1. All the mirrors in your house are hung at chin level.
2. You cross the street regularly to avoid anything displayed behind plate glass. (Your own reflection staring back at you in front of all that size 7 lingerie is just too depressing!)
3. Last year's chipped toenail polish has yet to be replaced.
4. There are more "fat" clothes than "thin" ones in your wardrobe.
5. You have more friends who do not remember your "real" (translate: "thin") self than friends who do.

6. YOU have become the family photographer. (No one will catch YOU off guard in one of those candid snapshots!)
7. There are no photos of you anywhere to be found since those taken during your high school graduation. (Those black robes hid a multitude of sins — and sundae!)
8. You have finally convinced yourself that pasta is a vegetable.
9. You salivate at the sound of a cookie wrapper rattling.
10. Your favorite TV "shows" are the cake mix commercials.
11. Dieting friends offer you their cast-off "fat" clothes.
12. You carry your lunch to work in a grocery bag.
13. The kids decide to bury you in the sand, then give up when there's not enough left on the beach.
14. Those little dimples in your knees everyone thought were so adorable when you were six months old have made a reappearance.
15. Your favorite exercise is jogging to the pizza parlor.

University assumes active role in Long Beach business center

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The University of Southern Mississippi at Gulf Park in Long Beach is one of the new sponsors of the Mississippi Small Business Development Center located at the local institution.

Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas, USM president, reported at a Wednesday news conference in Hardy Hall at Gulf Park that the university was proud to join the Mississippi Research and Development Center and U.S. Small Business Administration in sponsoring the small business development center.

"We will be serving not only small businesses in the area, but throughout south Mississippi," he stated.

Wes Bennett, MSBDC director, explained the center opened at Gulf Park in July 1982 under the sponsorship of the University of Mississippi and SBA.

Bob Wilkinson, MSBDC assistant director, said the center was established with the intent of USM assuming sponsorship and this was accomplished through legislation in 1983.

Bennett reported the center offers free management services and training to new or established small businesses not able to afford such professional advice.

The center provides 'pre-venture' service to individuals interested in opening a small business, he said.

"So far this fiscal year we have worked with 107 people in business or thinking of going into business," Bennett stated.

He added that the center also offers low-cost conferences and workshops to assist established or aspiring small business people.

Bennett reported that one-half to two-thirds of all small businesses do not succeed after the first year of operation and 90 percent of new small businesses close after five years in operations.

Lucas noted, "Many people are saying we are really in a day of entrepreneurship. There are more new businesses than ever and yet we know that the starting of any business is the riskiest venture you can take."

He explained that USM's roll will primarily be that of providing experts to analyze businesses to determine what degree of success their owners can expect.

Lucas noted Dr. Jim Meredith, R and D center director, would provide expert advice along with USM intern students and administrators including Dr. Karen Yarbrough, vice president for research and extended programs; Dr.

Shelby Thames, executive vice president; Dr. Joseph A. Greene Jr., College of Business Administration dean; Dr. Thomas Ivy, Department of Marketing chairman; and Dr. J.E. Holloway, USM Gulf Park dean.

Meredith anticipates that new small companies will provide 80 percent of new jobs in south Mississippi.

"Many states are gearing up old industrial development efforts toward working to establish small businesses in their state," he said.

The R and D center director said the Mississippi Gulf Coast is a prime area for the MSBDC because of the area's 'tradition of growth.'

"We expect in the next three or four years that the Gulf Park center will provide its services for 500 to 600 businesses. The small business centers across the state have worked with 2,100 companies already and we expect that number to grow to 2,800 this year," Meredith stated.

A USM news release reports that in addition to the Long Beach center, others are located in Oxford, Starkville and Jackson; 'satellite offices' are in Tupelo, Natchez, Meridian and Southaven; and another center is expected to open soon in Columbus.

Food labels remain important resource for shopper

By Ann O. Rushing
Extension Marketing
Specialist

Food labels provide a great deal of information that can help people find out more about what they're getting in the products they buy.

Some of this information is required by Federal Drug Administration (FDA) to be shown on the label; some is included on the label at the option of the manufacturer or processor. Some of the information of food labels may be in the form of symbols or codes or dates.

Certain information must be on all food labels:

- The name of the product.
- The net contents or net weight. The net weight on canned food includes the liquid in which the product is packed, such as water in canned vegetables and syrup in canned fruit.

—The name and place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor.

On most foods, the ingredients must be listed on the label. The ingredient present in the largest amount, by weight must be listed first, followed in descending order of weight by the other ingredients.

Any additives used in the product must be listed, but colors and flavors do not have to be listed by name.

The list of ingredients may simply say "artificial color" or "artificial flavor" or "natural flavor."

If the flavors are artificial, this fact must be stated.

Butter, cheese, and ice cream, however, are not required to state the presence of artificial color.

The only foods not required to list all ingredients are so-called standardized foods. FDA has set "standards of identity" for some foods. These standards require that all foods called by a particular name (such as catsup or mayonnaise) contain certain mandatory ingredients.

Under the law, the mandatory ingredients in standardized foods need not be listed on the label.

Manufacturers may add optional ingredients, however, and FDA is revising the food standards regulations to require that optional ingredients in standardized foods be listed on the product label.

Under FDA regulations, any food to which a nutrient has been added, or any food for which a nutritional claim is made, must have the nutritional content listed on the label.

In addition, many manufacturers put nutrition information on products when not required to do so.

Nutrition labels tell how many calories and how much protein, carbohydrate, and fat are in a serving of the product. They also tell the percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S.RDA's) of protein and seven important vitamins and minerals that each serving of the product contains.

Nutrition information can help people shop for more nutritious food and plan more nutritionally balanced meals. Nutrition information is given on a per serving basis. The label tells the size of a serving (for example: one cup, two ounces, one tablespoon), the number of servings in the container, the number of calories per serving, and the amounts in grams of protein, carbohydrate and fat per serving.

Protein is listed twice on the label: in grams and as a percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance.

Seven vitamins and minerals must be shown in a specific order. The listing of 12 other vitamins and minerals, and of cholesterol, fatty acid, and sodium content is optional.

The U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S.RDA's) are the approximate amounts of protein, vitamins, and minerals that an adult should eat every day to keep healthy.

Nutrition labels list the U.S. RDA by percentage. For example, the label may state that one serving of the food contains 35 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamin A and 25 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowance of iron.

The total amount of food an individual eats in a day should supply the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of all essential nutrients.

Nutrition labels show amounts in grams rather than ounces, because grams are a smaller unit of measurement and many food components are present in very small amounts. Use this guide to help you read nutrition labels.

1 pound (lb.) = 454 grams (g)
1 ounce (oz.) = 28 grams (g)
1 gram (g) = 1,000 milligrams (mg)
1 milligram (mg) = 1,000 micrograms (mcg)

Many foods today are manufactured into products that are different from traditional foods. Some classes of these foods include frozen dinners; breakfast cereals; meal replacement; noncarbonated breakfast beverages fortified with vitamin C; and main dishes such as macaroni and cheese, pizzas, stews, and casseroles.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Conway is scheduled to serve with the 2nd Battalion, 2nd Infantry at Fort Ord, Calif.

He is a 1983 graduate of Pass Christian High School, Pass Christian.

Rare eclipse to be visible from southern Mississippi

A rare phenomenon known as an annular solar eclipse will take place Wednesday, May 30, when the moon will almost completely cover the face of the sun for about 12 seconds.

The moon will appear just slightly smaller than the sun and the edge of the sun will still be visible, causing an extremely thin ring, or annulus, to be seen.

Although anyone in the United States will be able to see partial phases of the eclipse, only observers along an extremely narrow path stretching from the Gulf of Mexico near New Orleans to the Atlantic Ocean near Richmond, Va. will be able to see the annular effect.

This 'eclipse path' is only three to seven miles wide. Outside it, only a partial eclipse will be visible.

According to Sam S. Mims, Louisiana Arts and Science Center Planetarium curator in Baton Rouge, La. and editor of Space News, the annular effect will be visible in Mississippi in Nicholson, Picayune, Caesar, Wiggins, Bond, Leaf and McLain.

At about 8:40 a.m. C.S.T. on May 30, the moon will begin to edge over the disc of the sun, Mims says.

About 10:05 a.m. the annulus or 'ring of fire' will come into view for about 12 seconds.

Then the sun will begin to reappear gradually until the eclipse ends about 11:40 a.m.

The ring, Mims says, will be extremely thin—about the width of a dime seen from over a mile away—yet the remaining sunlight will still be bright enough to illuminate the landscape.

Some darkening will occur, to about the brightness level of a cloudy day, but the darkness associated with total eclipses will not happen.

Mims cautions that because some of the sun's disc will always be visible even though as much as 99.5 percent of it will be hidden by the moon, it will still be harmful to watch the eclipse with the naked eye.

Looking at the sun directly, especially with a telescope or binoculars, can result in permanent eye damage.

Telescopes must be equipped with special filters placed over the lens for safe viewing, Mims warns.

An easy way to watch the eclipse is by projecting the sun's image by punching a tiny hole in one end of a box, Mims suggests.

The image of the sun can then be projected onto the opposite end of the box, with the side of the left open for viewing the image.

Space News, a bi-weekly newsletter on astronomy, and the LASC Planetarium are sponsoring a two-day 'eclipse extravaganza' in connection with the annular eclipse.

On May 29 participants will gather for seminars on observing and photographing the eclipse, along with a crawfish boil and other activities.

The next morning buses will take observers to the best location in the world for viewing the spectacle—southern Louisiana.

Anyone interested in participating in 'Moonshadow '84' can call the LASC

Planetarium at (504) 344-9466 for more information, or write to Mims at P.O. Box 66521, Baton Rouge, La. 70896.

Mims notes there are three types of solar eclipses that can occur in nature.

Partial eclipses, the most common, can usually be seen a few times each year.

Total eclipses are rare. During these, the moon completely covers the sun, thrusting the landscape into darkness at mid-day as the moon's shadow crosses the earth.

The next total solar eclipse visible from North America won't be until the year 2017.

Annular eclipses are almost as rare. It will be hundreds of years before the next one is visible from the southern United States.

"This will be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to witness nature's ring of fire," Mims says.

"Hope for clear weather—and don't miss it!"

NATIONAL AWARD— The United States Achievement Academy reports that Paula Cuevas, 16, of Necaise Crossing has been named a 1984 United States National Award winner in business education. This award is a prestigious honor with academy recognizing fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. Ms. Cuevas, a tenth grade student at Hancock North Central High School, was nominated for the award by Mrs. Cherle Anderson, business education and typing teacher at the school. Ms. Cuevas will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook published nationally. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cuevas of Necaise Crossing. Her grandparents are Bob Hudson of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Daisy Smith of Poplarville and the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Cuevas.

Gus Aime hurls River Wildcats to finale win in three-game sweep

The Pearl River College Baseball Wildcats opened their 1984 season on a winning note in Poplarville over the weekend by sweeping the East Mississippi Lions during a three-game stand.

Sunday afternoon the Wildcats took a close 4-3 decision to go along with 16-5 and 8-6 doubleheader wins on Saturday.

Coach Ned Eades said he was pleased with the Wildcats' performance, however, the hitting was not too great on Sunday. Eades said his club played a good defense, especially Johnny Vamos and Kelly Jones.

The winning pitcher on Sunday was Gus Aime, however, it took relief efforts on the part of Sonny Nason and Tracy Stiglets.

The Wildcats smashed 15 hits in the opener to provide support for winning pitcher Harvey Simmons.

Brady Webb, Johnny Vamos, Kelly Jones and Troy Tallo each walloped a double for Pearl River, while Mark Lowery connected for two home runs and Webb added another.

Nine runs were tallied for the Wildcats in the second inning, putting the team ahead for good in the game, which only lasted four and a half innings due to the ten-run rule.

Pitcher Tracy Stiglets hurled the top of the fifth inning for Pearl River.

Jim Murphy and Tony Scott joined Webb and Lowery with multiple hits. Webb connected for four, Murphy three and Lowery and Scott two each.

The second game, lasting a full seven innings, was a closer match, with Pearl River needing three pitchers. Starter Jim Spugnardi nabbed the win with the help of Scotty Stanley in the sixth inning and Glen Linton in the seventh.

Linton was awarded a save for the game. Pat Behne knocked a double for the Wildcats, while Murphy and Travis Bourgeois smashed homers for the home team.

Murphy was also the only multiple-hit man for Pearl River with two.

BWYC's Olympic sailors seeking third Soling title

The Stieffel-Santa Cruz-Stieffel team of Olympic Sailing Campaigners from Bay St. Louis, Bay-Waveland Yacht Club and the Gulf Yachting Association won their second straight Soling regatta in their effort to win a place on the 1984 U.S. Olympic Sailing Team.

The event was the Texas Mid-Winter Regatta held at the Houston Yacht Club on Galveston Bay in LaPorte, Tx. Feb. 5 and 6.

It was scheduled as a three race series, however, the third race was cancelled because of stormy weather.

The Soling Fleet consisted of nine competitors and the B-WYC Team sailing Soling US-760, "Spirit of Bay St. Louis" in winds of 15 to 25 knots won the event with two first place finishes and a total of 1 1/2 points.

Geoff Cassel of Vineyard Haven, Mass. placed second with two second place finishes and a total of four points.

The third place finishes with six points and two third place finishes was Dave Fox from Houston, Tx. and the Houston Yacht Club.

The Bay St. Louis Campaigners will now go to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras Pre-Olympic Regatta to be sponsored by the Olympic Sailing Association of Southern Yacht Club on March 3-4.

They will then return to St. Petersburg for practice and a 5 day racing clinic sponsored by the U.S. Olympic Yachting Committee in preparation for the U.S. Soling Championships Regatta March 25-30 where 20 boats or teams will qualify for the U.S. Olympic Sailing Trails to be held May 12-25 at Alimos Bay Yacht Club in Long Beach, Calif.

The other Soling event which the B-WYC Team recently won was the 1983 Sugar Bowl Regatta with three first place finishes.

The team continues to seek contributions to their campaign effort to help with travel, lodging and other necessary campaign expenses.

Tax deductible contributions may be made to the team by making checks payable to the tax exempt Olympic Sailing Association of SYC.

Direct non-tax deductible contribution can be made to the 1984 Olympic Sailing Campaign Fund. All checks may be mailed to P.O. Drawer 231, Bay St. Louis, Ms. 39520.

180 MILLION AMERICANS AFFLICTED
It is unfortunate that it takes pain to bring a person into a doctor's office. Some of our most serious diseases cause a progressive destruction of body tissue without causing much pain until the later stages of the disease. It is estimated that 80 million Americans are afflicted with chronic disease and the U.S. has the highest degenerative disease rate of any civilized country. In this modern space age, much of this suffering could be averted if the people would take the time to inform themselves of the preventive benefits available through Chiropractic care. You see, Chiropractic keeps the nervous system of your body functioning at top performance, enabling your resistance to ward off serious infectious and disease. Authorities in our field point out that patients gain a greater degree of immunity from disease and a longer, healthier life span with the scientific application of proven, painless, relaxing, economical spinal adjustments, available only with the services of your Doctor of Chiropractic.

KC Hall ceremony to honor Free Throw Contest winners

Plaques and certificates will be presented Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Bay St. Louis to winners in the Knights' recent annual Basketball Free Throw Contest.

The event was conducted at the old St. Stanislaus gym on the beach in Bay St. Louis.

The winner in each of four age categories will receive a special plaque at the awards ceremony.

The 14-year-old boy winners were Louis Schuff with 13 baskets in 15 attempts followed by Mike Weems and Mike Peterson, tied for second with 11 baskets each.

They were followed by Stephen Montagnet in third place with 10 conversions.

The 13-year-old champion was Ya-Sin Shabazz with a score of 13 out of 15.

Roderick Harris was second with seven baskets. There was a tie for third between John Dowden and Willie Moody with five each.

In the 12-year-old boys' division Scott Davis won by making 11 of 15 free throws.

Cedric made 10 of 15 and finished second, while Jerome Galloway finished third with eight conversions.

The 11-year-old boys' winner was Ricky Oustalet who made seven of 15 free throws. Grey Schuff and David Dailey tied for the runner-up spot with six each, and Darrell Murphy finished third with four.

In the girls' division the lone winner was Kimberly Harris. Representing the Bay St. Louis Pere Le Duc KC Council No. 1522 were scorer Jim McCarthy and coordinator Jim Thriffilly.

A total of 35 boys and girls participated in the contest. Local winners will advance to the district competition.

A New Age Of High-Energy Recovery Is Dawning In The Natural Gas Business

The natural gas business is changing.

It isn't the same old blue flame.

Like many other natural gas transmission companies we are contributing substantially to research holding the promise of increasing energy derived from natural gas, thus lowering the cost of this vital energy.

This effort has been so successful that a new age of high-energy recovery is dawning in the natural gas business.

It means many benefits for the consumer, and more than anything else, it means natural gas will remain our premium fuel well into the next century.

It is well known, for example, that it costs three times as much to heat water with electricity. And now, research is producing end-use appliances for both cooling and heating that save as much as 20 to 40 percent in gas bills. Even vehicles that run on natural gas are being developed with an objective of reducing fuel costs by 15 to 20 percent.

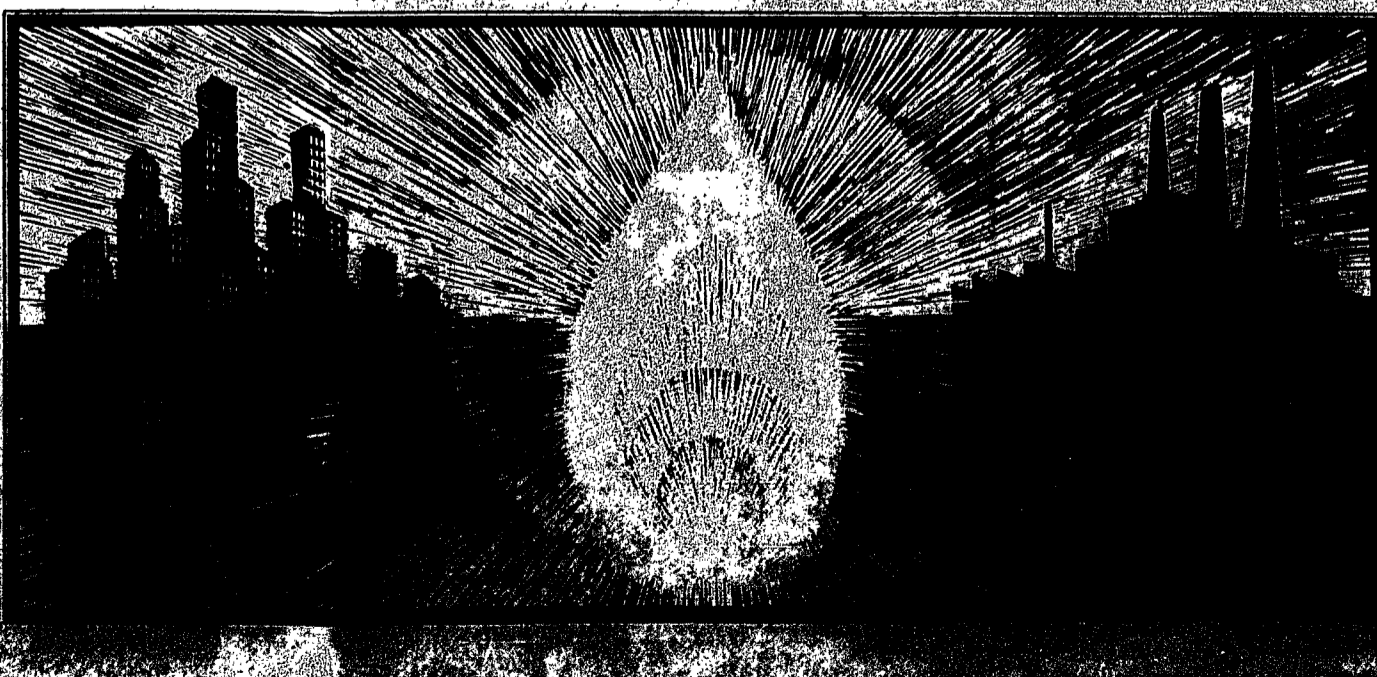

Natural gas has always been our best fuel, the most efficient energy ever produced by man or nature. At United Gas we're making it serve you better.

Tigers, Hawks, Bearcats to vie in Spring Jamboree

By EDGAR PEREZ
Hancock North Central's Hawks, Bay High's Tigers and the Bearcats of Long Beach will vie in a football Spring Jamboree round robin Friday night at HNC.

The event, which will open with a 4 p.m. contest between the junior high teams of HNC and Bay High, is the climax of spring football practice for the participating schools.

The preliminary game will consist of four eight-minute quarters.

On the varsity side, opponents will meet in two 12-minute quarters.

Hancock and Long Beach will open the action about 6 p.m., according to HNC head coach Irvin Favre, coordinator of the program.

The Bearcats then will face the Tigers in the second contest, and the final event will pit the Hawks and Tigers.

Tickets for the evening are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The Hancock Football Boosters will offer a hamburger plate including baked beans and potato chips for $2.50.

SSC-OLA humiliate Moss Point in tennis opener

The Stanislaus-OLA Tennis Team opened its 1984 season this week with a convincing 4-1 win over Moss Point on the SSC courts.

The matches were the first of the season for Moss Point as well.

Rockachaw Russ Betcher took the boys singles division over Rick Breland, 7-5, 2-6, 7-6.

OLA's Brooke Shapter wasted Robin Miles 6-2, 6-2 in a walk to a girls singles win.

SSC's Robert Boulet and

Peter Watts shamed Kevin McCrary and Brian Drummond in the boys doubles, 6-0, 6-0.

In girls doubles play, Michelle Van Peski and Maria Benvenuti were equally menacing in another 6-0, 6-0 win over Wendy Lennet and Marie Johnson.

In the only loss of the afternoon, Charles Schutt and Jennifer Hass lost to Stephanie Harris and Roland Prince in mixed doubles, 1-6, 2-6.

The SSC-OLA combo was scheduled to meet the boys and girls of Bay High Wednesday afternoon in Bay St. Louis, boys at Stanislaus and girls at the Tiger courts.

The SSC-OLA combo was scheduled to meet the boys and girls of Bay High Wednesday afternoon in Bay St. Louis, boys at Stanislaus and girls at the Tiger courts.

Any group wishing to form a summer league should be represented at the meeting by a league official.

Horse show judges seminar scheduled

The second annual Mississippi Horse Council Open Show Judges Seminar will be held March 3 at the Coliseum Ramada Inn and the Fairgrounds Multi-Purpose Building in Jackson.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the morning session will convene at 10 a.m. at the Coliseum Ramada Inn.

The morning session will feature a panel discussion on evaluation procedures, scoring and other points to consider while judging an open show.

The afternoon session will be held at the Fairgrounds Multi-Purpose Building starting at 1 p.m. and will stress practical exercises in judging. The fee for this seminar is $12.50 and can be paid at the time of registration.

The panel for this seminar will include: Frank Dietrich, executive vice-president of the Racking Horse Breeders Association, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Bobby Harrison, American Quarter Horse Association breeder, trainer, and judge, Ellisville, Ms.; and Dr. Jim Heird, assistant professor and horse specialist, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tx.

"Judging Seminars, such as this one, will help the quality and consistency of the judging in open shows in Mississippi," said Jim Young, president of the Mississippi Horse Council.

"This is our second seminar and we hope to continue this as an annual event."

For information, contact Helen Mobley, Route 1, Box 134, Tupelo, Ms. 38801, (601) 642-9346.

GRAND CHAMPION—Grandy Ladner, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton (Sonny) Ladner of White Cypress, displays his 1,600-lb. 15-month-old Simmental bull which was named Grand Champion at the annual South Mississippi Livestock Show held recently in Hattiesburg. Ladner is a member of the Necalse Crossing 4-H Club.

FIRST PLACE—William Moran, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Moran of White Cypress and member of the Necalse Crossing 4-H Club, stands with the 1,395-lb. 2-year-old Polled Hereford which was named First Place in Class at the recent South

Mississippi Livestock Show where 4-H and FFA members from South Mississippi entered approximately 90 steers and 125 breeding animals.

USM offers program to enhance leadership

In order to enhance leadership skills of the state's youth, the University of Southern Mississippi is offering a Leadership Studies program this summer.

Any sixth through eleventh grade students who have a desire to develop and enhance their leadership ability and who are recommended by school officials are eligible for the program, according to Dr. Frances Karnes, director of the Center for Gifted Studies.

A desire to develop one's leadership ability is the only requirement.

No present leadership positions, no specific grades or intelligence test scores are required for the program. Schools are not limited to a particular number of students either, Karnes said.

The July 2-6 program will include discussions for becoming leaders in school, community, various youth organizations and church or synagogue.

Training will be in the areas of fundamentals of leadership, written and oral communication, group dynamics, problem solving, values clarification, planning, personal skills and decision making.

Guest speakers, films and other resources are also scheduled.

Students will be housed in dormitories on the Hattiesburg campus. Instructional activities will be held in university classrooms. Question teachers, supervisors...

visors and counselors will be with the students at all times. Enrollment in the program is limited. Applications must be received by March 31.

For additional information, contact Dr. Frances Karnes, Southern Station Box 8207, Hattiesburg 39401, or call 266-5238.

IT'S A FACT

There are only two investor-owned electric utilities in the state—Mississippi Power Company, which is headquartered in Gulfport, and Mississippi Power & Light Company, (MP&L), which is located in Jackson. The names are similar sounding, but compared with MP&L, Mississippi Power has a different service area, different customers, different generating plants, different rates, and different investors. In fact, about the only thing we have in common is the product we both sell.

In Southeast Mississippi the name's Mississippi Power. And that's all there is to it.

Matters of Health

MONONUCLEOSIS. The Kissing Disease

Q. Can I get mononucleosis from kissing?

A. Yes. Infectious mononucleosis, or 'mono,' is called the kissing disease. Its virus is present in such body secretions as saliva and can be passed along by kissing but not by casual contact. It most often spreads among teenagers who have not been exposed to it to develop antibodies. Adults over the age of 25 or 30 rarely contract the disease, generally by that age nearly everyone has developed immunity to it.

Q. What are its symptoms?

A. Infectious mononucleosis causes swollen lymph nodes, sore throat, fatigue, headaches and sometimes a skin rash. It affects the liver and spleen. If liver involvement is severe, the patient may develop jaundice, yellowing of the skin and being incorrectly diagnosed as having hepatitis.

Diagnosing mononucleosis used to be difficult because many of its symptoms were similar to those of flu, hepatitis and other illnesses. However, sophisticated laboratory tests now make diagnosis easier and more accurate. These tests include the mononucleosis spot test, tests for the Epstein-Barr virus and other serologic tests.

Q. How is mono treated?

A. There is no specific treatment for infectious mononucleosis. Aspirin or its substitutes relieve headaches. But don't take antibiotics for the sore throat. They don't help, and some may cause skin rash in mono patients. Get plenty of rest.

A nutritionally-balanced diet is important. It maintains your weight and helps your body repair damage, especially to the liver.

Your physician probably will allow you to continue your regular activities if you feel up to them. However, if your spleen is enlarged he may limit your participation in contact sports since it could rupture.

Q. How serious is infectious mononucleosis?

A. Serious complications rarely result from mono, but its symptoms can persist for weeks—even months—before they disappear completely and you feel normal. Fatigue makes it especially debilitating.

Even though mono lasts a long time and may feel devastating, you do recover with no permanent effects.

Starr Tracks

BY CAROL STARR

ARIES (3-21/4-19) It's travel and the likes for you Aries. Small irritations will punctuate this week. Ride it all out.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) Publishing is the word for the week. How does that fit into your life? You will be asked for your sage advice this week.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) Energy runs low all week long—things will pick up by next week. Maybe try a few vitamins.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) Use caution in dealing with a person who isn't looking out for your well being. Deal with the problem headfirst.

LEO (7-23/8-22) If the weather is good be ready to get things accomplished. Be ready for the many challenges you will be facing.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) Legal matters are featured this week. Be prepared for the unknown factors that will appear. Be fair with a family matter.

LIBRA (9-23/10-23)

Business and job prospects improve this week. Should you be looking for work... watch it happen.

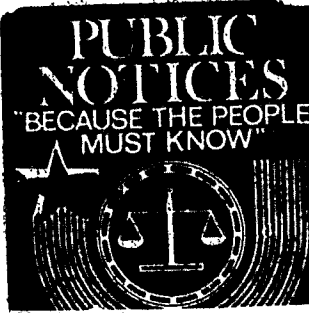

SCORPIO (10-24/11-22) Personal relationships take first place. Are you ready to make the necessary concessions?

SAGITTARIUS (11-23/12-21) Money abounds. Enjoy a little shopping spree. Something like this doesn't happen every day. Have some fun.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) Frustration marks the week. It seems nothing is going right for you. Be ready for some changes.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-19) Call some old friends and please listen to what a friend is telling you. It's time to really think that matter out.

PISCES (2-20/3-20) Love, romance, and the like are on your agenda this week. Try to remain neutral in a love argument.

TOURNAMENT PARTICIPANTS—Team from Our Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis participated in the recent tenth annual Mississippi Science and Mathematics Tournament held at Mississippi College. The tournament, sponsored by the Mississippi College Departments of Science and Mathematics, recognized students and their high schools for outstanding academic achievement in science and mathematics. Over 1,500 students representing 174 different high schools participated. OLA participants, pictured from left, are Nancy Gex, Courtney Egan, Michelle VanPeeke and Evelina Alcalen.

NORTH BAY WINNERS—North Bay Elementary School students receiving certificates of achievement recently for participating in a school-wide coloring book contest for the first and second grades and poster contest for the third through fifth grades sponsored by the Mississippi Veterans of Foreign Wars are, from left, Michael Schmidt, Robinette Williams and Tommy Ahrens, all of the first grade; Todd Barber and Sidney Doussan, both of the third grade; and Jamie McMillen, Leslie Diamond and Keela Walker, all of the

Mississippi University for Women's accreditation has been reaffirmed for a ten-year period by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, according to a joint announcement by MUW President Dr. James W. Strobel and SACS officials.

MUW was notified this week of the revalidation of its accreditation by Gordon W. Sweet, executive director of the Commission on Colleges of SACS, and Harold E. Wade, associate executive director of the accrediting organization.

Sweet and Wade said the action was taken in December at the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

"We congratulate you on this attainment," they said in the letter informing the university of the agency's action.

"We are very pleased to receive notification of our university-wide ten-year re-accreditation from SACS," said Dr. Strobel. "Our good 'grade card' also included some very positive compliments on our innovative instructional and service programs at the University."

MUW was required to satisfactorily complete an institutional self-study program as part of the reaffirmation process.

"The self-study was a university-wide function involving faculty, students, administrators, alumnae and the governing board," said Dr. Harvey Craft, who coordinated the work of the university's self-study committee.

The self-study led to a 275-page report which included recommendations for operation of the institution over the next ten years.

A reaffirmation committee made up of faculty members and administrators from other schools in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools visited MUW in May.

"They reviewed our study and recommendations," and then made recommendations and a report of their own," Dr. Craft explained.

A committee on standard-and reports studied reports from MUW and the visiting team, then made a recommendation to SACS that the university's accreditation be reaffirmed.

Accreditation by the regional accrediting agency is required for subsequent accreditation of individual programs within the university.

Cooperation is key to student discipline

Prepared by the National Association of Secondary School
Principals (NASPP)

When Americans are asked to state their biggest concern about public education, discipline is frequently the answer.

For several years discipline has ranked as the number one problem in public schools in the annual Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes toward the Public Schools.

Now even President Reagan has formed a working group which has developed a report entitled, "Disorder in Our Public Schools."

"There's no question that if students are to receive an excellent education, they must be able to study in an orderly environment," contends Scott Thompson, executive director of National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASPP).

"However, we must put this discipline concern in the proper perspective."

Thompson points out that most school principals believe discipline is not as large a problem in schools today as it was in the past two decades.

"As people are beginning to see that success in school relates directly to success in later life, we are hopeful that students will see the need to achieve academically," said Thompson.

"People are also realizing that we all have a role in making the situation better."

While one out of four people in the 1983 Gallup Poll responded that discipline was the number one problem in schools, a new question was asked in the survey.

"For the first time this year people were asked, 'Why is there a discipline problem?'" said Thompson. "The results did not single out the schools."

"Almost three-quarters of the American people (73 percent) said the number one reason is 'lack of discipline in the home.'"

The second most frequently cited reason was lack of respect for law and authority throughout society.

The third most reported selection was that youngsters who are constant troublemakers often can't be removed from school."

A reason associated directly with the schools, not on the list until spot number four, was that "some teachers are not properly trained to deal with discipline problems."

"If discipline is to be improved further in the schools, there must be cooperation between principals, teachers, parents and the broader community," said Thompson.

"Research on what makes a school effective documents conclusively that learning is improved when all people—students, teachers, principals, parents and general community—assume their share of the responsibility for good classroom behavior."

He listed these steps for parents:

—Emphasize the importance of arriving in school and being attentive in the classroom. Parents are the major role models for their children and have a great impact on students' attitudes. If parents encourage students to respect authority, the chances that they will behave well in school increase greatly.

—Monitor the television programs that students watch. There are many fine programs on TV. There are also many murders, fights and other acts of violence on television. What children see helps build their attitudes.

—Reward the positive accomplishments of your children. Many times young people are desperate for attention. If recognition is not provided for successes, students may become rebellious to gain desired attention.

Business can also provide recognition for students who are successful in school, according to Thompson.
